1.2. Test Execution FIGT-40 Details

Description	This test execution is part of the Family Island game testing project conducted on an Android device. All test cases were manually executed using Jira with the Xray plugin to manage and track the testing process. The focus was on verifying core game functionalities such as main menu navigation, crafting system, energy usage, profile settings, offline mode handling, and quest management. Any deviations from expected results were logged as issues directly in Jira for tracking. The aim was to ensure stability, usability, and a smooth user experience across essential game-play elements.
